I spend more time than I'd like to admit on my iPhone and laptop, and staring at a boring wallpaper doesn't help matters. Usually, the perfect wallpaper is a Google search away, but other times I have to take matters into my own hands. If you've searched the depths of Pinterest and Google and couldn't find the perfect wallpaper, I have a solution. Aside from writing and making content on Instagram, I've spent years creating wallpapers for my blog. In the beginning, it was rough. Learning Photoshop is no joke so hats off to anyone who takes this on. For this step-by-step tutorial, I'm creating an aesthetic collage wallpaper and you don't need complex software with a high price tag. All you need is a browser and a vision you're ready to bring to your PC or mobile device. In this article, I'll show you how I design my aesthetic wallpapers using a website called Kapwing. Let's get started!

Step One: Brainstorm Ideas Staring at a blank canvas can be overwhelming. Questions like, "where do I begin?" and "what colors do I use," slow down the creative process. Let's start with a quick brainstorming session to carve out a few ideas. I recommend jotting down quotes, organizing magazine clippings, and creating a Pinterest board to collect pictures from around the web. Pinterest boards have a "sections" tab to organize pictures according to different themes. Holidays, seasons, colors, quotes, and styles are a few section ideas to consider. I'm going for a wallpaper collage with a neutral color palette and a minimal aesthetic. Think calm, warm, summer, vibes plastered on a screen and you've got my wallpaper. If you have pictures on your device, create a folder to easily access them in the next few steps. Collage wallpapers are a staple because the possibilities are endless. You can put pictures together with your favorite hobbies, design a vision board, or showcase your best memories. It feels messy when you start putting everything together, but in the end, it's magical! Each example below uses images with a similar color palette and vibe.

Step Two: Open Kapwing Studio After you gather ideas, head over to Kapwing, click start editing, then click start with a blank canvas. Kapwing is a free browser-based video editor you can use on any iPhone, Android, PC, or tablet. My go-to device is a laptop and a Chrome browser. Working with a lot of pictures on a larger screen tends to be easier for me.

Step Three: Change the Background Size The right output size will vary depending on your device. For PCs, set the output size to 16:9 and mobile wallpapers should be 9:16. I'm making a wallpaper for my laptop so 9:16 aspect ratio it is! Step Four: Upload Pictures Now it's time to bring everything we gathered in step one to the canvas! Click upload, paste an image URL, or drag and drop your pictures into Kapwing Studio. You can upload JPG and PNG files to create your wallpaper. It's also possible to import beautiful stock images from Unsplash, Pexels, and Pixabay. Use the embedded plugins to search and browse through aesthetic imagery.

Step Five: Arrange and Edit Pictures Begin arranging and overlapping your pictures onto the canvas until you get the desired layout. There's no right or wrong way to do this so have fun! Keep moving the pictures around and changing the order until you're happy with the results. To change the order, click a layer and select backward or forward. You can drag the corners to change the size and use the crop tool to select an area of a picture you want to cut out and keep. When you've finished arranging your pictures, begin adding overlays and text. I added a small rectangle and typed a short quote to place over the shape. I wanted my quote to look like it came from a typewriter so I used the font, Source Code Pro. For a more realistic ripped paper picture, go to the image, then image search and type "paper scraps png." You'll find pictures of notebook paper scraps, antique paper, and paper ripped from a book. Definitions and lyrics are other popular text ideas to add. A few more things I'm adding to my aesthetic wallpaper are overlays and stickers. These graphics are the quickest way to add flair to any wallpaper. I added a star overlay on one picture and a few butterflies to complete my wallpaper. To remove the background from a picture, click erase and use the magic wand tool to select and delete the background.

Step Six: Export and Download When you're finished, click export image and download to save your aesthetic wallpaper! You can create a free account with Kapwing to remove the watermark and your wallpaper will be stored in the cloud for up to two days. If you want to make a matching wallpaper for other devices, click make a copy and change the output size. I made one for my iPhone and I gotta say, it looks pretty good on both devices. With a brand new wallpaper, looking at a screen just got a little better! Check out the articles below to make more wallpapers and follow us on Twitter for the latest news at Kapwing. Related Articles: The most basic customization on any Windows PC, laptop, tablet or phone is the ability to change wallpapers. Now, this is something we do quite often but there are times when we are too lazy to change wallpapers and things get stagnant. Thankfully, with Windows 10 and its universal apps, there are a number of cool wallpaper apps that automatically update the desktop as well as the lock screen wallpaper. These apps offer beautiful wallpapers from Windows Spotlight, Bing, 500px and other sources. So, without any further ado, here are the 6 best wallpaper apps for Windows 10:

1. Brilli Wallpaper Changer Brilli Wallpaper Changer is a universal app, which means it should work almost the same way on both Windows 10 systems and Windows 10 Mobile devices. It's arguably the most feature rich wallpaper app available on the Windows Store. The app offers you wallpapers from various sources, as well as Bing. You can create a collection of your favorite wallpapers or choose to set Bing images as your lock screen and/or desktop wallpaper. The app lets you set the Bing daily image region, the wallpaper change time interval (15 minutes to 1 day) and the change mode (random or sequential). Brilli is available in a free version but it's limited to two collections, 30 files per collection and includes non-intrusive ads. To remove the limitations as well as the ads, you can make an in-app purchase. Install: (Free, $1.99 in-app purchase to get full version)
2. Dynamic Theme While the name "Dynamic Theme" might be a little confusing, the app is definitely not. In fact, the Dynamic Theme universal app is my favorite wallpaper app on Windows 10. It's available for free and mimics Windows 10's settings page interface, which makes up a really easy experience. With the app, you can change the lock screen and desktop background to a single Bing or Windows Spotlight image or set the app to automatically update your device with new Bing and Windows Spotlight images. You can preview the current Bing and Windows Spotlight images, change Bing's region and save the new images in a folder automatically. Moreover, the wallpapers are synced across your various Windows devices. Install: (Free)
3. Wallpaper Studio 10 The Wallpaper Studio 10 universal app offers wallpapers in various categories like abstract, car, funny, life, nature, quotes, sports etc. for your Windows 10 device. There are thousands of wallpapers here and you can set the app to auto update the lock screen and the desktop in specified intervals. The app also brings a great community and you can even upload your favorite wallpapers for other users. Along with wallpapers for Windows 10 devices, the app also brings customization features for the Microsoft Band. Overall, Wallpaper Studio 10 is a decent wallpaper app but its free version features some really annoying ads. However, you can make an in-app purchase to remove ads. Install: (Free, $1.35 in-app purchase to remove ads)
4. Dinamic Wallpaper Unlike other wallpaper apps in this list, Dinamic Wallpaper does not depend only on Bing or Windows Spotlight to bring you wallpapers. The universal app offers wallpapers from sources like 500px Pulse, 500px Macro and NASA Astronomy. Moreover, you can even add your very own pictures to the collection. As with most other wallpaper apps, Dinamic Wallpaper automatically changes lock screen and desktop wallpapers. It also lets you save the wallpapers automatically and set the Bing region. Dinamic Wallpaper is available for free but there's a donate option in the app if you want to support the developer. Install: (Free)
5. My 500px As the name suggests, the My 500 px universal app is an unofficial client of 500px, the very popular photography community. The app brings photos from 500px categorized in Popular, Editors, Fresh Today, Upcoming and Highest Rated. The app lets you set lock screen and desktop wallpapers and you can set up an automatic change interval, like other wallpaper apps in this list. What makes the app unique is the 500px community. You get some amazing pictures and if you are a photography enthusiast, you can post your photos to the community. The app is available for free but comes with ads; however, you can remove them with an in-app purchase. Install: (Free, $1.49 in-app purchase to remove ads)
6. Daily Pic The pictures brought by Bing's wallpaper of the day are beautiful and if you just want a simple app that lets you save these backgrounds and set them as wallpaper, the Daily Pic app is for you. The app brings you various options, like you can enable automatic saving of new Bing pictures, choose the download resolution, the download folder and more. You can also enable automatic changing of the desktop and lock screen wallpapers. The app is fairly simple and it should work fine if you only want the Bing wallpapers. Daily Pic is available in free ad-enabled version but you can make an in-app purchase to remove ads. You can also check out Microsoft's official Bing Desktop software, which automatically sets Bing photos as desktop wallpapers. However, the app does not let you download those pictures. Install: (Free, $1.99 in-app purchase to remove ads)
