It includes some of the former wealth of Shell New Zealand and Chevron New Zealand. From Metá August 2013, it was listed on the NZ with the ZEL code. The largest shareholders were infraril and the Superannuation New Zealand fund, each with 20%. It is also listed on the Australian Securities Exchange with the ZNZ code. Shell is released the New Zealand fuel distribution activity in April 2010, selling its operations to Infraril and NZ Super. [8] The former shell operations were restrained as Z energy in 2011. Shell background came out of the market distribution market in New Zealand in 2010. Shell and its assets, including a share of 17.1% in the listed NZ refining were acquired by the Super New Infrators and Zealand to $ 891 million. [9] However, Taranaki's exploration and production division were not part of this portfolio sale. [10] Z energy currently competing with BP, ExxonMobil subsidiary Mobil NZ and several smaller independent groups as Gull. Former competitors include Chevron Subsidiary Caltex of which Z Energia has acquired in June 2016. Foundation in 2010 the brand has remained as shell, while the participation company was renamed by Shell NZ in Greenstone Energy. After examining 17,000 customers the following year, the company changed its name to the Z Energy Limited and stamped the service stations, such as Z. [11] Rebranding exercise is believed for a cost of about NZ $ 60m , compared to the NZ $ 10m cost / year license of the shell brand. [12] The company said that you will concentrate on a better square service and the best food. [12] Following the re-branding and later of five new service stations, the petrol market share held by Z energy slipped from 31.6% of 2011 to 29.0% in 2013.
